CENTER FOR THE STUDY OF THE PRESIDENCY

USIP was the facilitating organization for the Iraq Study Group (ISG), co-chaired by James A. Baker, III, and Lee H. Hamilton. As such, USIP is the repository for the ISG's official report, titled The Iraq Study Group Report: The Way Forward - A New Approach, which was downloaded more than 1.5 million times from USIP's Web site in the first two weeks after the launch of the report on December 6, 2006.

USIP facilitated the bipartisan ISG at the urging of Congress. The ISG's mandate was to conduct a forward-looking, independent assessment of the current and prospective situation on the ground in Iraq, its impact on the surrounding region, and consequences for U.S. interests. Three organizations supported USIP in its work facilitating the ISG: the Center for Strategic and International Studies (CSIS), the Center for the Study of the Presidency (CSP), and the Soldiers awarded for saving comrades from Bradley fire

Army Times

February 12, 2007

CAMP RAMADI, Iraq -- News of an intense firefight and American casualties flowed quickly to Combat Outpost Grant.

Soldiers from 1st Platoon, Bravo Company, 1st Battalion, 36th Infantry Regiment, were engaged in fierce combat in Ramadi and needed help evacuating the wounded.

Staff Sgt. Jason Trumpower, Spc. Edward Reyes and the rest of the quick-reaction force rushed to their aid from COP Grant.

As the team turned onto Spartan Street, their Bradley fighting vehicle hit an improvised explosive device. The blast seriously injured the driver, Spc. Vicente Ramirez, and destroyed the vehicle.

Reyes, the platoon medic, started treating Ramirez, who had suffered second- and third-degree burns and serious wounds to his ankles, needing two tourniquets.

Trumpower was pinned inside the turret but continued to maintain security.

Staff Sgt. David Anderson, who had pushed out from Combat Outpost Iron to help the soldiers of 1st Platoon, learned that Trumpower and his crew had been hit. He quickly found them and loaded them into his vehicle. They were driving on Goat Street toward Camp Ramadi when a second IED exploded. The blast injured five more soldiers, set the Bradley on fire and destroyed the vehicle.

Court to hear appeals on ruling against NSPS

Government and union lawyers will argue before an appeals court Dec. 11 in a case that could decide whether the Defense Department can proceed with contentious changes to personnel rules affecting 650,000 employees.

Thirteen federal employee unions will defend their joint lawsuit against the Pentagon's National Security Personnel System (NSPS), filed in November 2005, arguing chiefly that the new system fails to protect employees' rights to bargain collectively.

Lawyers representing the department likely will attempt to distance NSPS from the Homeland Security Department's failed personnel reforms, which were struck down by the same appeals court in June. Based on arguments filed in advance of the Dec. 11 hearing, federal lawyers will contend that the law authorizing NSPS gave the Pentagon greater authority than Homeland Security had to redefine collective bargaining.

The 2003 law authorizing the creation of NSPS "makes clear that the agencies must 'ensure' collective bargaining, only insofar as the collective bargaining system does not conflict with other authorities granted to DoD," federal attorneys wrote in an August brief to the appeals court.
